Morning Humor

There was a football game of note between the big animals and the little animals. The big animals were crushing little animals and at half-time, the coach made a passionate speech to rally the little animals. At the start of the second half the big animals had the ball. The first play, the elephant got stopped for no gain. The second play, the rhino was stopped for no gain. On third down, the hippo was thrown for a 5 yard loss. The defense huddled around the coach and he asked excitedly, "Who stopped the elephant?" "I did," said the centipede. "Who stopped the rhino?" "Uh, that was me too," said the centipede. "And how about the hippo? Who hit him for a 5 yard loss?" "Well, that was me as well," said the centipede. "So where were you during the first half?" demanded the coach. "Well," said the centipede, "I was having my ankles taped."

"What is your brother's name?" Little Jane: "I don't know yet. We can't understand a word he says."

"For heaven's sake, Chris, why can't you talk to me once in a while?" Julie whined. "What?" Chris replied. "Look around!" Julie yelled, as she pointed around the room. "Look at all these books! You always have your head buried in a book! You don't even seem to know I'm alive!" "I'm sorry, honey," Chris said. "Sometimes I wish I were a book. Maybe then you'd at least look at me!" Julie exclaimed. "Hmmm," Chris mumbled, "that's not such a bad idea. Then I could take you to the library every few days and change you for something more interesting."

A woman was taking care of a neighbor's little girl one morning. She arrived in time for breakfast and sat down at the table. "Mommy always makes me hot muffins for breakfast," the girl said. Eager to please, the woman went into the kitchen and prepared a tine of hot, fresh muffins. "No thank you," the girl said when they were brought to her. The surprised woman replied, "I thought you said your mother always has muffins for breakfast?" She does, but I don't eat them."

It's official, Find a new member!

New Member Add Fees Waived! The COVID-19 pandemic has had an impact on communities worldwide. More than ever, kids and communities need Kiwanis. To encourage existing Kiwanis clubs to continue to invite new members, the Kiwanis International Board approved a new-member fee waiver to bolster membership and help Kiwanis clubs perform the service needed in the wake of this pandemic and beyond. Due to the continuing emergency conditions, Kiwanis International and the PNW District boards have approved the continuation of the waiver of the new-member enrollment fees for new members of existing Kiwanis clubs from October 1, 2020 to December 31, 2020.

Oct 25 Cider Press Afternoon?

Kiwanis One Day is October 25th. Typically the day is chosen as an opportunity for the Kiwanis family to show their communities what our great organization can achieve. Clubs and their Service Leadership Programs join to do something together to benefit the community. We have the chance for a great day this year though we have to look carefully at our resources and the safety to all members as we prepare to move our local food bank (the Cove) to its new building. Key Club meets this Thursday and after looking at plans for the move we will try to make Key Clubbers part of the group. Damn this virus.

A little more Humor

At my granddaughter's wedding reception, the DJ polled the guests to see who had been married longest. It turned out to be my husband and me. The DJ asked us, "What advice would you give to the newly married couple?" I said, "The three most important words in a marriage are, 'You're probably right.'" Everyone then looked at my husband. He said, "She's probably right."

A nervous taxpayer was unhappily conversing with the IRS Tax auditor who had come to review his records. At one point the auditor exclaimed, "Mr. Carelton, we feel it is a great privilege to be allowed to live and work in the USA. As a citizen you have an obligation to pay taxes, and we expect you to eagerly pay them with a smile." "Thank goodness," returned Mr. Carelton, with a giant grin on his face, "I thought you were going to want me to pay with cash."
