Morning Humor

I asked my phone, "Siri, why am I so bad with women?"
She said, "I'm Alexa you moron."

Here's a little tip from me to you as an experienced traveler. Wake-up calls are the worst way to wake up. The phone rings, it's loud and you can't turn it down. I leave the number of the room next to me. It just rings very quietly and you hear a guy yell, "Why are you calling me?" Then I get up and take a shower. It's great.

Little Johnny asks the teacher, "Mrs Roberts, can I be punished for something I haven't done?" Mrs Roberts is shocked, "Of course not, Johnny, that would be very unfair." Little Johnny is relieved, "Okay, Mrs Roberts, good to know. By the way, I didn't do my homework last night."

At a local gun show two guys were bragging about their wife's abilities. "My wife's a fine shot. She can hit a dollar every time."
"That's nothing. My wife goes through my trousers and never misses a dime."

Mother: I think our son is going to be an astronaut.
Father: What makes you think that?
Mother: I spoke to his teacher today. She said he is taking up space.

What is it called when a chameleon can't change its colors anymore? A reptile dysfunction.

A donkey had an IQ of 186. He had no friends at all though...
Because even in the animal kingdom, nobody likes a smart-ass!

Two women archaeologists are down in Mexico excavating an ancient Mayan burial ground looking for some remains to take back to their museum. Unfortunately, everything they run across is badly decomposed. One of the two says, "We don't seem to be having much luck." The other replies, "Keep on digging, honey, a good Mayan is hard to find!"

Meet our new PNW District Secretary, Delanie Delimont, who fills the spot recently held by Ed Lutrell. The PNW's first ever female secretary sounds like a good choice. The PNW has a short youtube video where she does an introduction. Check her out.

Meeting Schedule

Meetings will be by Zoom. Watch for Ray Peterson's email on how to connect. Next meeting will be Nov 17. Watch your email for news on Christmas at the End of the Road and other traditional activities.

My son, Eric, a Liberty Bell graduate has been watching our school district and comparing it with the school districts of the Palouse as the world deals with the pandemic. His respect for Kiwanis member and Superintendent Tom Venable is right up there. Some of the things available for our students are amazing and don't appear on every schools curricula. Here are some examples:

Here students from Mr. Southworth's Construction and Design class practice framing. Real skills with real equipment and training to make work. Amazing.

Sometimes the between towns location of Liberty Bell makes it inconvenient to participate in all activities but there are advantages as well. Pictured is the campus mountain bike + running + hiking + cross country skiing trail nearly completed by a group of students, parents and community partners. What an asset to the school.

The school district and LBHS does a great job of using social media to keep the community up to date on what is happening. These examples are just two of many things making our educational system special.

The next time you encounter Tom Venable or Colby Carpenter tell them that their efforts are appreciated and tell Colby that you can get him a real deal on a years' membership in Kiwanis.

Hang in there

Christmas at the End of the Road will have its great Fireworks display. Just don't stand in the four-way stop next to your friends without a mask.

Neighbors helping Neighbors will be happening and will need volunteers. Manger Mall might need muscle too.
