Morning Humor

A child psychologist had twin boys—one was an optimist; the other, a pessimist. Just to see what would happen, on Christmas Day he loaded the pessimist’s room with toys and games. In the optimist’s room, he dumped a pile of horse droppings. That night, the father found the pessimist surrounded by his gifts, crying. “What’s wrong?” the father asked. “I have a ton of game manuals to read ... I need batteries ... and my toys will all eventually get broken!” sobbed the pessimist. Passing the optimist’s room, the father found him dancing for joy around the pile of droppings. “Why are you so happy?” he asked. The optimist shouted, “There’s got to be a pony in here somewhere!”

As a man serviced an alarm system at a jewelry store recently, the saleswoman let him know that the store was having a 20 percent off sale. "I bet your girlfriend would love it if you bought her something," she suggested. "I don't have a girlfriend," he answered. "No girlfriend? Why not?" "My wife won't let me."

What did the jealous storm trooper say to the friend who stole his girlfriend and was now going to marry her? "May divorce be with you."

A judge tells the defendant, “You’re charged with attacking your boss with a hammer.” “You jerk!” yells a voice from the back of the courtroom. “You’re also charged with attacking a bartender with a hammer,” says the judge. “Jerrrrkkkk!” bellows the same man. “Sir,” says the judge, “one more outburst, and I’ll charge you with contempt.” “I’m sorry, your Honor,” says the man. “But I’ve been this jerk’s neighbor for ten years, and every time I asked to borrow a hammer, he said he didn’t have one!”

How do you start a fairy tale in the modern era?
"If elected, I promise..."

3 November 2020

Last Wednesday was the Learning Pod Fall Festival for Methow Valley Elementary Students and we were a part of the Pods. Four of us put groups of students through making cider.

Students cycled through eight stations and we enjoyed the activity as much as the students did.

Thank you Suellen for providing the equipment to make this a fun learning activity for the students.

Have you been at either of the schools at lunch time to see what the Classroom in Bloom garden contributes to the students daily lunches? The garden, to which we have given both dollars and sweat, this year produced 5437 pounds of produce for student consumption. We have members who volunteer at the garden regularly and when something needs doing we show up to help. This place is a school district treasure.

Meeting Schedule

Meetings will be by Zoom. Watch for Ray Peterson's email on how to connect. Next meeting will be Nov 17. Watch your email for news on Christmas at the End of the Road and other traditional activities.

Do you know this young lady? If it weren't for the pandemic you would see a lot of Madison Surface our Key Club President this year. Her volunteer nature is what we seek in SLP leaders and she is a special child.

In upcoming bulletins we'll try to recognize some of the best of our Liberty Bell 2021 graduating seniors.
