Morning Humor

A young miss was pacing through her living room waiting for her new beau to arrive. Just then a young man driving a brand new red Corvette was parking in front of the house. The girl's father glanced out the window at the same time. His chin dropped two feet and his pupils doubled in size. He turned to his daughter and asked, "What does your boyfriend do?" She replied, "He inherits."

Two mountaineers reached a huge, deep fissure in a glacier. "Careful here," says one of them. "My mountain guide fell down there last year." "I bet you felt bad about that," says the other. He quipped, "Not really, it was pretty old and missing a few pages."

The teacher was giving her class of seven-year-olds a nature history lesson. "Worker ants," she told them, "can carry pieces of food five times their own weight. What do you conclude from that?" One child was ready with the answer, "They don't have a union?"

My three year old was saying his nightly prayers in a very low voice. "I can't hear you," I whispered. He said firmly, "Wasn't talking to you."

Sitting on the bank of a stream a young fisherman trolled his bait lazily in the water and chewed comfortably on a blade of grass. "Catch anything yet?" asked the stranger. "Nope," murmured the fishermen. "That's strange. It appears to be such a fine stream for trout," said the stranger. "It must be," replied the fishermen, "they refuse to leave it."

Friday our community lost a member who had been an example of what Kiwanis hopes for in a member. Carl Miller had a Kiwanis heart and Winthrop and the entire Methow Valley can point to things that are better for children, older folk and even valley visitors. RIP Carl.

Carl was the person who first got us involved in our building and repairs at Little Star.

Helping was always better than check writing.

Carl liked community events and often helped with 49er's and the year came when he and Roxie were Grand Marshall and Grand Lady.

Little Star, Jamie's Place and especially the Shafer Museum will miss Carl's attention.

Meeting Schedule

Meetings will be by Zoom. Watch for Ray Peterson's email on how to connect. Next meeting will be Dec 22nd when we will "present" the scholarships to 12 students we selected last May. Please attend the Zoom meeting to hear how the students are doing and hear their adventures as they face this incredible year.
