

Morning Humor

Studying our wedding photos, my six-year-old asked, "Did you marry Dad because he was good-looking?" "Not really," I replied. "Did you marry him for his money?" "Definitely not," I laughed. "He didn't have any." "So," he said, "you just felt sorry for him?"

The good thing about having a husband who never listens is being able to say: "I already told you that." Whether you did or not, he'll never know the difference.

One Sunday in a Midwest city a young child was acting up during the morning worship hour. The parents did their best to maintain some sense of order in the pew but were losing the battle. Finally, the father picked the little fellow up and walked sternly up the aisle on his way out. Just before reaching the safety of the foyer the little one called loudly to the congregation, "Pray for me! Pray for me!"

A thief got married to a thief. They decided to give up their old ways and begin a family. Fifteen months after getting married, they were expecting a son. At the hospital their son was born and his hand was closed. They went for a closer look. They opened up his hand and were surprised by what they found. The wristwatch of the doctor who delivered him.

I wanted to marry an English teacher when she got out of jail... But you can't end a sentence with a proposition.

Good Morning Rosalie! Wow! Twenty members and seven guests including Rosalie and she was better behaved than Bob Ulrich. A great meeting.

Among our guests were a coach and member of the Girl's Cross-country team looking for some food money for the weekend's State Championship event in Pasco. We have a history of helping feed our teams that make it to State. We gave them a check and both the Girls and the Boys team brought home trophies. The Boys were Champions and the Girls took Second. Great job Mountain Lions!

Our teams have an impressive record at State Tournaments and we are proud to help with making their weekend a little bit better

We may soon be looking at a chance to provide another trophy case for the student athletes of Liberty Bell.

It's late in the year but we were able, at the last meeting, to install our Key Club officers. Pins were presented to: Michael Wilbur, Faculty Advisor, Jady Mitchell, President, Grey Patterson, Vice President and Grace Kominak, Secretary. Missing and installed later was Alex Dufresne, Treasurer.
